Visiting the Chemistry Teaching Laboratory: Information on Health and Safety – SOLO Visitor

General Safety

Sensible, acceptable behaviour is expected at all times and is the responsibility of the student to adhere to the rules of the laboratory and to follow instructions given by supervisors.

The Department has rigorous health & safety procedures and the student will be supervised at all times during his/her visit, nonetheless we must point out there are inevitably potential hazards associated with a visit to our laboratories and in engaging in practical work.

The Department accepts no liability for the student and reserves the right to remove them from the event should they fail to act in a safe and sensible manner.

Acceptable Clothing for Laboratory Work

To ensure safety in the laboratory, all individuals must wear appropriate clothing. The Department reserves the right to refuse entry to anyone who does not comply with these guidelines.

- Clothing must fully cover the torso, including the chest, abdomen, back, pelvis, shoulders, and legs.
- Acceptable clothing includes short-sleeved t-shirts, long-sleeved tops, and trousers made of sturdy material that provides adequate protection.
- School uniforms are only acceptable if they adhere to these requirements.

Prohibited Clothing:

- No bare skin should be visible once a lab coat is worn, except for the hands and face.
- Crop tops, strappy tops, and tops with open backs are not permitted, as they expose vital areas of the body.
- Sandals, open-toe shoes (e.g., ballerina pumps), and high heels are strictly prohibited.
- Lycra-style sports leggings, tights, and thin-material trousers are not allowed, as they do not offer sufficient protection against chemical spills or splashes.
- Shorts, short skirts, cropped trousers, ripped jeans, and trainer socks (ankles must be covered) are not permitted.
- Additionally, long hair must be securely tied back.

Safety glasses and laboratory coats will be provided by the Oxford University Chemistry Department.

Additional Lab Rules

- No food or drink is to be consumed (including gum and medication) in the labs.
- No cosmetics or skin preparations may be applied.
- Hands must be washed after leaving the laboratory.

Special Requirements

To prepare our demonstrators effectively for the visit please inform us of any specific needs you may have. This includes specific physical requirements or special educational needs.

We regret that crutches are not permitted in the laboratory as they cause a trip hazard.

We have accessible spaces for wheelchair users, which can be prepared with advance warning.

HEAT Database – Privacy Notice

1. What is the purpose of this document?

If you have supplied personal information for the purpose of an outreach activity organised by the University of Oxford ("the University") and/ or its Colleges, some of that information is added to the University's Higher Education Access Tracker (HEAT) database (www.heat.ac.uk), which is used to record information about outreach activities and those who take part in them. This document describes how the information added to HEAT is used by the University of Oxford and its Colleges (together "we" or "us") as the "data controllers" for that information. This means that we decide how to use your information and are responsible for looking after it in accordance with data protection legislation.

2. Glossary

Where we refer in this policy to your 'personal data', we mean any recorded information that is about you and from which you can be identified. It does not include data where your identity has been removed (anonymous data). Where we refer to the 'processing' of your personal data, we mean anything that we do with that information, including collection, use, storage, disclosure, deletion or retention.

3. The types of data held about you on HEAT and how it was obtained

The information we hold about you on HEAT comprises the following: name; gender; date of birth; post code; school; ethnicity.

We obtained this data when you took part in outreach events/activities organised by the University (including its Departments and Faculties) and/or the Colleges. Information about your ethnicity is a special category of more sensitive personal data and will only be held if you volunteered it when you took part in an event/activity. We may also add to HEAT information about you that we collect from third parties, including the Office for Students (OfS – www.officeforstudents.org.uk), the Higher Education Statistics Agency (HESA – www.hesa.ac.uk), the University and Colleges Admissions Service (UCAS – www.ucas.com), the Department for Education (DfE – www.education.gov.uk), Skills Funding Agency (SFA – www.skillsfundingagency.bis.gov.uk) and ACORN (www.acorn.caci.co.uk). This information may contain statistics about the area in which you live, for example, how many people from your area go on to higher education. Data from these sources will also allow us to track your own educational journey from school to higher education, for example, which university you end up at and what type of degree you obtain.

4. How we use the data on HEAT

We use the data in section 3 for the following purposes: monitoring and evaluating the effectiveness of our outreach programmes; producing statistics, including event application and participation numbers, and participant outcomes; and tracking future outcomes of event participants, including applications to the University and other Higher Education Institutions.

Using your data for these purposes is necessary for tasks that we carry out in the public interest (promoting and widening access to Higher Education) and to meet our legitimate interests in promoting applications to the University from under-represented groups.

5. Who is using your personal data and who will it be shared with?

HEAT is a shared database used by a variety of organisations to identify which activities are most helpful in preparing students for higher education and progressing to employment. Users of HEAT include: departments and faculties of the University and Colleges that organise outreach activities. They will have access to your personal data contained in HEAT for the purposes set out in Section 4 above; entities associated with the University, including student led organisations such as OUSU and educational charities, and your school, college and/or training organisation. These organisations will only have access to your personal data contained in HEAT if they were involved in organising an outreach event which you attended. We may also share your data with HESA, UCAS, DfE and SFA to help determine whether our activities are helping participants move on from school into Higher Education and employment.

6. Transfer of your data outside of the European Economic Area (EEA)

There may be occasions when the sharing explained above involves the transfer of your data outside the EEA, for example, to a service provider based overseas. Such transfers will only take place if one of the following applies: the country receiving the data is considered by the EU to provide an adequate level of data protection; the transfer has your consent; the transfer is necessary for the performance of a contract with you or to take steps requested by you prior to entering into that contract; or the transfer is governed by approved contractual clauses.

7. How long will we retain your data?

Providing high quality outreach activities means being able to compare our activities and to determine which ones best help students to move on to Higher Education and employment. How long this takes will vary depending on your age at the time of participation in an outreach activity. In order to conduct long-term evaluation, tracking and research about access to Higher Education, we will retain your data for as long as we need it to meet the purposes set out above.

8. Your rights

Under certain circumstances, by law you have the right to:

- Request access to your data (commonly known as a "subject access request"). This enables you to receive a copy of your data and to check that we are lawfully processing it.
- Request correction of your data. This enables you to ask us to correct any incomplete or inaccurate data we hold about you.
- Request erasure of your data. This enables you to ask us to delete or remove your data in certain circumstances, for example, if you consider that there is no good reason for us continuing to process it. You also have the right to ask us to delete or remove your data where you have exercised your right to object to processing (see below).
- Object to processing of your data where we are relying on our legitimate interests (or those of a third party) and there is something about your particular situation which makes you want to object to processing on this ground.
- Request the restriction of processing of your data. This enables you to ask us to suspend the processing of your data, for example if you want us to establish its accuracy or the reason for processing it.
- Request the transfer of your data to another party.

Depending on the circumstances and the nature of your request it may not be possible for us to do what you have asked, for example, where there is a statutory or contractual requirement for us to process your data and it would not be possible to fulfil our legal obligations if we were to stop. Further information on your rights is available from the Information Commissioner's Office \(ICO\).

If you want to exercise any of the rights described above or are dissatisfied with the way we have used your information, please contact the University's Information Compliance Team at data.protection@admin.ox.ac.uk. The same address can be used to contact the University's Data Protection Officer. We will seek to deal with your request without undue delay, and in any event in accordance with the requirements of the GDPR. Please note that we may keep a record of your communications and/or share your communications with the relevant College(s) to help us resolve any issues which you raise. If you remain dissatisfied, you have the right to lodge a complaint with the ICO at <https://ico.org.uk/concerns/>.

Data Protection Privacy Notice

In the course of completing this Consent Form, you have provided information about yourself ('personal data'). We (the University of Oxford) are the 'data controller' for this information, which means we decide how to use it and are responsible for looking after it in accordance with the Data Protection Act 2018 and the General Data Protection Regulation as implemented into UK law and associated data protection legislation.

How we use your data

We will use your data for the Purposes as set out in this Consent Form. We are processing your data for these purposes only because you have given us your consent to do so, by signing this Consent Form.

You can withdraw your consent at any time by contacting us at the address set out below. In this event, we will stop the processing as soon as we can. However, this will not affect the lawfulness of any processing carried out before your withdrawal of consent.

We will only use your data for the purposes for which we collected it, unless we reasonably consider that we need to use it for another related reason and that reason is compatible with the original purpose. If we need to use your data for an unrelated purpose, we will seek your consent to use it for that new purpose.

Who has access to your data?

Access to your data within the University will be provided to those who need to view it as part of their work in carrying out the purposes described above.

We may share your data with companies who provide services to us, such as for printing, web hosting, asset and social media management, and, if applicable:

N/A

These companies are required to take appropriate security measures to protect your data in line with our policies. We do not allow them to use your data for their own purposes. We permit them to process your data only for specified purposes and in accordance with our instructions.

We may also share your data with the following organisations for the reasons indicated:

Oxford University

Where we share your data with a third party, we will seek to share the minimum amount necessary.

Retaining your data

We will only retain your data for as long as we need it to meet our purposes, including any relating to legal, accounting, or reporting requirements.

Security

Your data will be held securely in accordance with the University's policies and procedures. Further information is available at www.ox.ac.uk/privacy-policy.

Where we store and use your data

We store and use your data on University premises, in both a manual and electronic form.

Electronic data may be transferred to, and stored at, a destination outside the United Kingdom (UK), for example, when we communicate with you using a cloud based service provider that operates outside the UK such as Survey Monkey, MailChimp, Eventbrite, Wufoo, Facebook, Instagram, Twitter etc, and/or:

Microsoft

Such transfers will only take place if one of the following applies:

- the country receiving the data is considered by the UK to provide an adequate level of data protection;
- the organisation receiving the data is covered by an arrangement recognised by the UK as providing an adequate standard of data protection;
- the transfer is governed by approved contractual clauses;
- the transfer has your consent;
- the transfer is necessary for the performance of a contract with you or to take steps requested by you prior to entering into that contract; or
- the transfer is necessary for the performance of a contract with another person, which is in your interests.

Your rights

You have the right to:

- request access to your data (commonly known as a "subject access request"). This enables you to receive a copy of your data and to check that we are lawfully processing it.
- request correction of your data. This enables you to ask us to correct any incomplete or inaccurate information we hold about you.
- request erasure of your data. This enables you to ask us to delete or remove your data where there is no good reason for us continuing to process it. You also have the right to ask us to delete or remove your data where you have exercised your right to object to processing (see below).
- object to the processing of your data, where we are processing it to meet our public tasks or legitimate interests (or the legitimate interests of a third party) and there is something about your particular situation which makes you want to object to processing on this ground. You also have the right to object where we are processing your data for direct marketing purposes.
- request that the processing of your data is restricted. This enables you to ask us to suspend the processing of your data, for example, if you want us to establish its accuracy or the reason for processing it.
- request the transfer of your data to another party

Further information on these rights is available from the Information Commissioner's Office (<https://ico.org.uk/for-organisations/guide-to-the-general-data-protection-regulation-gdpr/individual-rights/>).

Depending on the circumstances and the nature of your request, it may not be possible for us to do what you have asked, for example, where there is a statutory or contractual requirement for us to process your data and it would not be possible to fulfil our legal obligations if we were to stop.
